

Enemy Forces Poised For New Saigon Assault

SAIGON (AP) — Intelligence reports say six enemy divisions are poised to hit Saigon next week and Viet Cong suicide squads are pouring into the capital for the massive offensive.

A highly placed Vietnamese source said 1,000 enemy troops already were inside the capital despite identity checks and allied sweeps around the city. They are believed to be terrorists, demolition experts and commandos.

Military spokesmen believe the enemy will attack Saigon before Friday, anniversary of the 1954 Geneva agreements that partitioned Vietnam. Monday often is mentioned as a likely day for the assault.

Artillery Backing

Reports indicate the Viet Cong will be backed up by artillery, 122mm and 140mm rockets and possibly some new type of artillery. The 140mm rockets are more powerful but less accurate than the rockets previously used against Saigon, and are expected to cause significant civilian casualties in any mass barrage intended for military targets.

The expected attack—which would be the third on the city—also is expected to be the fiercest and most destructive of the war. Sources said the enemy is prepared to suffer massive casualties in trying to demonstrate that the allies cannot defend their own capital and to put overwhelming pressure on the United States at the Paris peace talks.

Aim At Power Net

Enemy units are under instructions to destroy the city's power system, wipe out military and civilian communications, and smash Saigon's big Tan Son Nhut air base and the large airfield and military complex at Bien Hoa, 25 miles northeast, the sources said.

One captured enemy document spoke of setting up an armed governing authority in parts of the city.

Reports indicate the enemy has 11,000 men within easy striking distance of Saigon, with perhaps 10,000 more spread farther out around the capital.

Aid Moved In

More than two divisions of American and Vietnamese troops have been assigned to protect the city and suburbs, and six more U.S. and South Vietnamese divisions are deployed farther afield.

However, some U.S. officers estimated it would take nine divisions dug in around the city to seal it off. That many troops are not available, even though reinforcements are reported on the way.

"There is no question about it. There is a lot of fighting ahead of us," said Maj. Gen. John Hay, commander of U.S. forces manning the inner protective ring around Saigon.

Saturday Mailman Will Disappear

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Post Office Department has ordered the closing of 347 small branches and told postmasters to gear for sharp curtailment of Saturday service everywhere.

Announcing this Friday the department said it was caused by manpower cutbacks dictated in the new tax bill.

(The Escanaba Post Office reported that it had received no information so far from the Post Office Department on application of the postal service reductions in this area.)

But a senator said it was "blackmail" aimed at forcing an exemption from the bill for the department.

The department said 250 fourth class post offices will be closed Aug. 2 and 97 more Aug. 30.

Effective July 27 all Saturday and Sunday window service at first and second class post offices will be cut to a maximum of two hours. Saturday collection from street boxes will be limited to Sunday schedules.

No Date Set

Postmasters also were told to submit by Sept. 1 plans for elimination of all Saturday delivery on city residential routes. No date was set for carrying these out.

The department also imposed, in a separate action, a freeze on extension of delivery routes to new apartments or subdivisions.

"This is not a matter of dollars, but of people," said the department. "Under the manpower restrictions imposed by the tax bill we simply will not have enough people to continue all postal services at their present level."

The department said it hoped "Congress will correct the situation."

Not Asking Money

"We are not asking for restoration of any money cut from our budget," it said. "We believe we can operate within our budget and maintain postal services at or near their present level if we do not have to reduce employment to the June 1966 level."

The tax bill requires the department to cut back 83,238 employees by filling only three out of every four vacancies.

In Congress, the department action was received coolly.

"We will not be intimidated by blackmail or implied threats," said Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., in a floor speech.

Seek Cost Figures

He said he had written Postmaster Gen. W. Marvin Watson asking how much money would be saved by cutting service "so we can rescind that part of his appropriation."

Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the House Ways and Means Committee, reportedly told associates he would oppose repealing any part of the tax bill, including the 10 per cent income surcharge, unless the whole measure is repealed.

Watson appeared before the committee earlier this week to plug for an exemption, saying Saturday service would have to be cut if manpower was reduced.

War Lull 'Good Sign,' Declares Ambassador

PARIS (AP) — U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman disclosed today that "serious matters" have been touched on in his informal coffee-break conversations with Ambassador Xuan Thuy of North Vietnam during the Paris peace talks.

"There are a lot of trivialities and personal discussions," Harriman said, "but one can't help but touch on serious matters. And we're getting into a little bit more of the idea of what's important in each other's minds."

Harriman said he considered it a "good sign" that enemy forces "haven't shelled Saigon for a couple of weeks." He described this as one of the "straws in the wind" that he found somewhat encouraging.

But he said that so far he has not found any indication that North Vietnam was prepared to impose "restraint" on its military operations to justify ending the rest of the American bombing on the North.

Harriman discussed the talks in a televised interview, aimed primarily at a European audience and Harriman sought to explain U.S. policy toward divided Vietnam by drawing an analogy with divided Germany.

"Thinking in terms of Europeans," he said, "I think one has to think of the fact that the German people want to get together, and there are conditions under which they can come together."

"But no one suggests that the use of force should be applied. No one would be so reckless as to suggest the use of force. Whatever the future of the reunification of Germany, it must be done by peaceful means."

McGovern Bid vs. Humphrey Getting A Push

By The Associated Press
Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy charged today the present administration's efforts in welfare, housing, education and poverty "have been inadequate, and in many cases have contributed to our problems instead of solving them."

The contender for the Democratic presidential nomination linked his rival, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, with "reform in appearance but not in reality."

McCarthy's critique was in a speech prepared for delivery at the Colorado state Democratic convention.

McCarthy cited Humphrey's approach to the urban housing problem as an example, saying it added up to "vague incentives" to private industry to build housing in the slums.

But it should be clear by now, he said, that private industry has consistently failed to build low-income housing, preferring to use public funds for middle-class luxury housing.

McGovern Bid?

"The former inhabitants of the area are simply shifted to another corner of the central city where they are crowded together more tightly than ever," he said.

Many Democrats had their antennae aimed at Huron, S.D., today to see if there was anything to hints that a third Democratic contender was going to emerge.

A caucus of the South Dakota delegation to the Democratic national convention tonight was being touted as the setting for the launching of Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota as a candidate.

"Unlike other favorite son bids," William Dougherty Jr., chairman of the delegation said Friday, "it appears the McGovern candidacy represents a serious effort by many delegations to find an alternative to Humphrey and McCarthy."

Kirk For Rocky

While Richard M. Nixon, generally regarded as holding a comfortable lead in the Republican race, put in another day of non-campaigning Friday, the other GOP contender, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, won the endorsement of a Southern governor.

Rockefeller was backed by Florida Gov. Claude Kirk. But Kirk, who has been conducting a personal crusade to derail the third-party campaign of George C. Wallace, acknowledged it was Wallace, not Nixon, he was trying to undermine by coming out for the New York governor.

"This Wallace thing is very serious," Kirk said.

In another development on the political chessboard, the Gallup Poll's latest nationwide survey showed McCarthy favored over both Nixon and Rockefeller. Humphrey also topped Nixon but was tied with Rockefeller. The poll did not pit Humphrey against McCarthy or Nixon against Rockefeller.

House Stiffens Dope Penalties

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a two-edged attack on drug addiction the House has passed bills that would provide more facilities for treatment and stiffen penalties for illegal trafficking in narcotics.

The two bills were sent to the Senate Friday by overwhelming votes.

Possession for personal use without a prescription of LSD and other hallucinogens, plus depressant and stimulant drugs for the first time would be a misdemeanor under one bill.

But the same measure also takes into consideration the plight of the youthful, first time offender.

Rep. Paul G. Rogers, D-Fla., told the House that testimony has shown three to five per cent of the nation's high school and college age students have experimented with the mind-bending drug LSD.

Penalties under the bill range from a $1,000 fine and one-year prison term or both for first offenders to three years and $10,000 for subsequent violations.

Plane Hijacker Quits In Tears

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A babbling gunman who "knew he was making a mistake" ordered a U.S. airliner to fly to Cuba, then surrendered his gun, cried and let the plane land in Miami.

"I'm dying of cancer," the tearful hijacker told the crew.

Oran Daniel Richards, a 33-year-old forklift operator from Springfield, Ohio, was charged with kidnapping and aircraft piracy. Both are federal offenses and the piracy charge carries a maximum penalty of death.

U.S. Commissioner Edward Swan set Richards' bond at $250,000 pending a hearing Monday.

Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., one of the 47 other passengers, said the gunman threatened to kill him. None of the passengers or six crewmen was injured.

The six-foot Richards, a native of Columbus, Ga., appeared pale, but gave no hint of emotion as he was led from the cockpit of the Delta Airlines jet after it made an emergency landing in Miami. The plane—Flight 977—was en route from Philadelphia to Houston, Tex.

Small Plane Hijacked

This was the second attempt during the day in which a gunman attempted to fly to Cuba.

Earlier Friday, a man who gave his name only as "Van Dyk" chartered a single engine plane at Key West, Fla., for a trip to Miami. Pilot Cletis Massingall, 35, radioed the passenger had pulled a gun and ordered him to Havana.

Massingall's plane landed at the Havana airport about an hour after the passenger pulled his gun.

Places Gun On Floor

Capt. Forrest Dines of Chicago said the man entered the cockpit waving the pistol and demanded the plane be diverted to Cuba.

"My engineer started talking to him and established a rapport with him," Dines said. The engineer persuaded the man to place his gun on the floor.

Flight engineer Glenn Smith said the skyjacker "more or less made the decision himself."

13-State Search

Bobby Rogers had been the subject of a manhunt through the slums and busy streets of New York since the Thursday evening spray of bullets from a .30-caliber automatic carbine killed three men and left a bystander slightly wounded.

A 13-state alert had been broadcast for Rogers and more than 100 detectives were assisting in the case. A room-by-room search of Rogers' West 138th Street apartment building was conducted.

Rogers' neighbors described him as "very calm... a hell of a nice guy... a very decent fellow... well liked."

Blame

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A U.S. senator saved from a gunpoint trip to Cuba Friday blamed the Supreme Court's liberal decisions for letting "criminals run wild," and said no new laws are needed to curb airplane hijackings.

"It's all the Supreme Court's affair — they make it possible for criminals to run wild," Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., said Friday night.

Eastland was one of 54 persons aboard a Delta Airlines jet liner, which a gunman attempted to divert to Havana. Eastland said the gunman threatened to kill him when he encountered the hijacker as he started to the restroom.

"I heard a man say, 'I'll kill you. Get back. I'm a dying man.' So I sat down," Eastland related.

"He knew he was making a mistake and doing the wrong thing, and I just convinced him of that," Smith said. "At times he was very rational. At times he was very irrational."

Says He Took Gun From Trio In Holdup Try

BURLINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Bobby L. Rogers, identified by police as the Bronx gunman who killed three men, told his brother he shot in self-defense, the brother said.

The 31-year-old Army veteran was in the Alamance County jail today after surrendering meekly Friday to a deputy sheriff in the adjoining city of Graham and waiving extradition.

New York officials were being sent to North Carolina to take custody of him. They said they expected to return him to New York Monday or Tuesday.

Rogers, a Negro, was unarmed and accompanied by his brother, Henry Rogers of Burlington, when they approached Deputy Clifton Wilkinson on the courthouse steps. They were "calm as anybody," Wilkinson said.

Quoted By Brother

Henry Rogers, 35, oldest of 11 children in the family, told the Burlington Times-News: "He did it in self-defense. Some people have asked me if my brother is insane. He is not insane. He did it in self-defense."

Rogers quoted his brother as saying "those people came into the building where he was superintendent. One of them put a gun against his belly. He took the gun away from the fellow and sprayed them with it."

"After he did it, he got scared and ran," Henry Rogers said.

Boarded Bus

Sheriff John Stockard said Bobby Rogers told him he had thrown the weapon away, then boarded a bus in Manhattan at 8:30 p.m. Thursday—a few hours after the Bronx shootings. He arrived in nearby Greensboro, N.C., Friday morning and took another bus to Burlington.

Henry Rogers said his brother considered going back to New York to surrender.

"I told him not to do that, because they would kill him if he did," he did not elaborate on who "they" might be.

Soviet Writer Defects To U. S.

NEW YORK (AP) — Arkady V. Belinkov, a Soviet writer and literary critic, has defected with his wife to the United States.

In a parting blast at the Communist government, Belinkov is quoted as writing June 20 in a letter of resignation to the Union of Writers of the USSR: "I never considered myself a true subject of a government comprised of liars, tyrants, criminals and stranglers of freedom." He termed the government "mercenary, intolerant, ignorant and all-devouring machine."

Investigators said the suspects refused to give their correct names. A fingerprint check is being made.

Police said, however, that the four persons have been connected with the bank robbery at Otisville last Monday. Otisville is a small community about the size of Rapid River located about 15 miles northeast of Flint.

State Police said two men armed with snub-nosed revolvers escaped with $18,894 from the Otisville State Bank last Monday.

Det. Sgt. Edwin Hill of the Marquette Post and three agents from the Federal Bureau of Investigation were continuing to investigate this morning.

Troopers declined comment on how long the four persons might have been in Gladstone, but officers said the Gladstone Police had begun investigation of several persons who had flashed and spent large sums of money in Gladstone taverns.

It was reported that the woman has relatives living in this area.

Officers said all of the robbery suspects surrendered without resistance.

little bit because we didn't want to make any rash movements." Later, Smith picked up the gun and handed it to the captain.

Ten minutes after bursting into the cockpit, Smith said, the hijacker crouched on the cabin floor and cried.

Walter Jureski, district sales director for Delta, said stewardess Haws "quoted the hijacker as saying he was dying of cancer."

Richards appeared pale as he was marched from the aircraft in handcuffs, holding his hands balled into fists—as far apart as the chain would permit. He wore a blue suit that appeared to be new. His hair was cropped short in a military brush cut.

The gunman went onto the flight deck as the Convair 880 was flying southwest of Nashville, Tenn., the captain said.

This was the eighth attempt this year to force a commercial airliner to fly to Cuba and the third attempt in recent years that failed.

Mobile Homes Court Approved

The development of a mobile homes court on a 26-acre site north of the U. P. State Fairgrounds in Escanaba is announced by Phil LaMarch of Phil & Lee's Mobile Homes.

The project has been approved by the City of Escanaba and the facilities will meet all of the requirements of the Michigan Department of Health.

LaMarch said there will be water service from the municipal water supply, sanitary sewer connections, and that electrical wiring will be placed underground for convenience and appearance. Streets will be blacktopped and lawn areas will be planted and landscaped.

Concrete pads for 40 mobile homes are planned for the initial development. The 26-acre site, purchased from George McEwen of Chicago and Escanaba, is large enough to accommodate a total of about 200 mobile homes, LaMarch said.

Included in the development will be a service building which will house washers, dryers and other facilities for convenience of the mobile homes court residents.

Other construction projects approved in Escanaba include: An addition — 79 by 54 feet — to the Pioneer Motor Inn. A warehouse addition, 14 by 82 feet, to the Berger & Robinson building at 822 1st Ave. N. Sunday Liquor Sales Approved In Delta County

The Board of Supervisors wasted little time Friday in approving sale of liquor by the glass in Delta County after 2 p. m. on Sundays.

In a 20-minute meeting at the County Building, the Board unanimously approved a resolution which will permit establishments which derive more than 50 per cent of their gross receipts from sale of goods and services other than liquor to apply to the State Liquor Control Commission for a Sunday sales license.

Action came under a new state law which put the Sunday sale of liquor question to county boards on a local option basis.

The law allows sale of liquor by the glass only for consumption on the premises and will not allow Sunday liquor sales at grocery stores, etc., with take-out licenses.

The resolution approved was given immediate effect, but establishments seeking to offer liquor on Sundays will have to make application to the Liquor Control Commission for the Sunday license.

A fee of 15 per cent of the regular license fee will be charged with the receipts to be placed in a special state fund for treatment programs for alcoholics.

In other business, the Board authorized Prosecuting Attorney Nicholas Chapekis to intervene for the county in the proposed rate increase of Michigan Consolidated Gas Co.

The authorization was needed in event the county elects to file a formal protest to the rate increase with the Michigan Public Service Commission.

Transfer of the old courthouse property on 1st Ave. S., to the City of Escanaba was approved, contingent on the city's development of a senior citizens housing complex.

The city proposes to use the old courthouse site to relocate several homes from the 500 block between Ludington St. and 1st Ave. S., where the senior citizens project is expected to be constructed.

Delta County is the 14th Michigan county to approve Sunday liquor sales. Dickinson and Mackinac counties in the Upper Peninsula had previously taken action.

Justice O'Hara Seeks Reelection

CADILLAC (AP) — Michigan State Supreme Court Justice Michael D. O'Hara Thursday formally announced he is a candidate for reelection. O'Hara made the announcement in Cadillac at the annual convention of the Michigan Probate and Juvenile Court Judges Association.

O'Hara was elected a justice of the Supreme Court in 1962 and will complete his first term on Jan. 1, 1969.

He was born in Menominee Sept. 19, 1910, son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. O'Hara, and member of one of the Upper Peninsula's most distinguished legal families.

His father was an attorney, served as prosecutor of Menominee County, and was auditor General of Michigan in 1935-36, and his mother was Nell Doyle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. Doyle of Menominee.

Doyle was Menominee County prosecutor, a state legislator and Democratic party leader and famed orator. Four of his 5 sons became attorneys: Gerald of Cleveland; Kenneth O. and Thurman B. of Menominee and Meredith H., of Lansing, who is the retired state court administrator of Michigan.

O'Hara is an alumnus of Menominee High School, St. Norbert College and the University of Notre Dame. He served on the faculty of St. Norbert after World War II service as an officer of the U. S. Marines in the Pacific Theater.

He is the father of two daughters and two sons. The O'Haras maintain homes in Menominee and in Lansing.

The court, now with 8 justices, will be reduced to 7 to conform to the new state constitution. Justice Theodore Souris of Detroit, whose term expires like that of O'Hara at the end of this year, has announced that he will not be a candidate for re-election, leaving O'Hara the only incumbent justice seeking return to the bench.

Duck Situation Stays Critical, Canada Reports

Cool weather during most of June and good general rains at the end of the month have slowed pond deterioration on the Canadian prairies. The duck hatch situation, however, remains critical, and in many places where temporary spring water enticed ducks to nest, brood ponds exist only on a week-to-week basis. Serious deterioration is also found in the southern Canadian parklands but improves northward to the mixed forest where conditions are satisfactory.

Reports from several sources confirm that, in response to the poor water situation this spring, a significant part of the waterfowl breeding population overflew the prairies, says Ducks Unlimited. Some of these displaced birds have gone into the northern parklands and mixed forest. Abnormal concentrations of pintail and mallard have also appeared in the Arctic and Subarctic, the latter well beyond their normal breeding range. What production can be expected from these birds is unknown. Fortunately, an early spring is reported in the Western Arctic, which may stimulate nesting and give these birds time to mature broods.

Although spring was early on the prairies, broods have been slow in appearing. Nest initiation may have been delayed by poor habitat conditions and it is also apparent now that the freezing temperatures of mid-May disrupted nesting significantly. The peak of the hatch should occur in mid-July and broods will be conspicuous on the remaining prairie waters.

This Time For Real

Four straight losses for the Detroit Tigers might worry Tiger fans a little bit, but it wouldn't cause Manager Mayo Smith to scrap his starting lineup.
Four straight losses by the Escanaba Area Public Schools in millage elections has caused great concern amid the Board of Education.
The board reluctantly has spelled out an alternative to millage if the millage losing streak extends to five straight on the 5.4 mill proposal to be voted on Monday, Aug. 19. The proposal includes a $215,000 cutback in school spending which would reduce the district's debt to "only" $108,000.

In detailing the proposed cutbacks, the board emphasized they only would be implemented if the millage proposal is again defeated.
That even possibility of defeat exists, however, should be of great concern to the entire community.
In the past four elections, the Board of Education has intentionally refrained from specifically spelling out what affect defeat of the millage requests would have on schooling, primarily because the board and school administration believed that voters of the district would realize the critical needs of the district. There was also the feeling that the school district didn't want to give the appearance of threatening voters to get the issue approved.

With less than two months to go before schools re-open for the 1968-69 educational year, however, the question of "what do we do if it loses" is no longer academic.

There is no time for another election if the proposal is defeated on Aug. 19. And to operate the schools with a deficit, including some $90,000 from present operations, of over $320,000 would be financially irresponsible.
It would take over five mills to pay back that much money in one year, plus another half mill to meet the interest. And that still wouldn't begin to meet the operating needs of the district for 1969-70.

The only alternative, the Board of Education decided, was to detail the spending reductions that will follow if the millage again is defeated.
Among the eliminations proposed is bus transportation of students. It is this program — like the elimination of the hot lunch program last fall — that will create the greatest public commotion.

Elimination of student transportation, it is estimated, will save the school district about $71,000. The proposed 1968-69 transportation budget is about $131,000, including between $7,000 and $8,000 for the director's salary and another $62,000 for drivers' salaries.
State reimbursements for the program is estimated at about $60,000. That figure isn't up to the specified 75 per cent of transportation costs the state is supposed to pay, but practically is the real net bus aid Escanaba Area schools can expect.

State funds for student transportation are thrown into a common pool, then divided equally among all participating school districts. If the pool isn't large enough to meet all needs, the payments aren't either.
Discontinuation of the Escanaba Area transportation program for students would cause a great hardship on families in outlying areas, including parochial school families whose students also ride Escanaba Area Public Schools' transportation system. It would force parents to set up car pools, driving students to school at early hours in the morning and returning in the afternoons to take them home.

The Board of Education approached the problem of reducing school spending with the thought that elimination of student services — like hot lunch and transportation — would be less harmful to children in the long run than actual cutbacks in the education program.
There will be shortening up there, too, however, as seven teachers needed in the system next fall to meet the growing enrollments won't be hired, but the Board hopes to be able to maintain the existing educational program at its present levels.
It is unfortunate that cutbacks have to be considered at all, but the hard fact is that public education is costing more money every year.

No longer can the Board of Education "hold the line" for a year or two on teacher and other school employees' salaries. Contracts are negotiated, union-style, and the Board of Education must remain competitive with salaries offered in other parts of the Upper Peninsula or lose its teaching staff.
Salaries account for about 80 per cent of the district's expenses. Outside of eliminating teaching positions, or dropping of kindergarten classes, or putting students on half-day schooling, there is little area in which to reduce.

The $215,000 cutback, the board said, is only an "alternative" to passing the millage proposal. The cuts will be implemented only if the millage is defeated.
The Press suggests that the reductions would be costly in schooling quality and immensely disruptive in family provisions for school attendance. Aug. 19 is Decision Day.

In the recent Eastern championship bridge teachers Ed Pinner and Bob McPherran avoided the spade trap and landed in the correct contract of six hearts. Since they were playing an International Match Point match, each one gave up the play for seven and played safe to make their slam contract.

The bidding was the same at both tables. Both North players chose to open with one club and then to give an immediate heart raise. In the New York area most experts favor five card major opening bids and sound major raises. Thus both Ed and Bob felt their hands warranted immediate Blackwood action.

The play was also identical. Each declarer went right up with dummy's ace of clubs, drew trumps with two leads, cashed the king of diamonds, entered dummy with the 10 of trumps, discarded the queen of clubs on the ace of diamonds, ruffed a club, entered dummy with the ace of spades, ruffed the last club and led a low spade toward dummy's jack.

When West showed out each South smiled contentedly and called for a low spade from dummy. East was on lead and had to either give declarer a ruff and discard or lead away from his queen of spades.

This line of play gave up a potential overtrick in case West had started with two or three spades headed by the queen but in IMP play you follow the rubber bridge practice of making sure of a game or slam contract. If the jack of trumps had fallen on the first trump lead it would have been possible to time the play so that the second spade could be led toward dummy but with the jack forgetting to drop, each declarer had to use dummy's ace of spades as an entry to strip the hand of clubs and make the end play possible.

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
WASHINGTON (NEA) — Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York, whose quests for the presidency seem always to be tinged with a tragic futility, hangs once more on the edge of disaster in his late-hour bid for the 1968 Republican nomination.

Piecing together fact and careful conjecture, this reporter learned in a nationwide check that rival Richard Nixon is moving toward a convention delegate total 100 or more in excess of the 667 votes required to nominate.

Rockefeller, on the other hand, is slipping in the delegate list at the very peak of his costly, multi-level campaign. He now has fewer prospective delegates than were indicated on the eve of his March 21 decision (later reversed) not to make the race. He is at least 300 delegate votes off target.

The dam is about to burst and release the flood tide for Nixon. Endorsements for the former vice president are piling up. Favorite sons like Sen. John Tower of Texas are withdrawing, cutting delegates loose to flock to the front-runner in impressive numbers.

Only some stunning political miracle, it seems, can now save Rockefeller, for 10 years one of his party's brightest stars who nevertheless finds the final height incredibly difficult to climb.

Somehow or other, he is always fighting the presidential wars in the wrong way at the wrong time. This year he jumped in against Nixon on April 30, giving his competitor huge advantage, and is racing about the country in a campaign that is constantly on the verge of a flame-out.

On a recent sunny afternoon, following an appearance before a fair mid-day outdoor crowd in downtown Cleveland, Rocky sought refuge for "staff time" in a roadside motel. By way of explaining a schedule which the governor himself would have thought ridiculously light a decade ago, an aide said:

"He went through that crowd."

The crowd was not that much of an ordeal. The fact is that, at 60, Rockefeller is not the zesty, tireless campaigner he was in the years 1958-64. Only since the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy on June 5 has occasionally shown flashes of the old fire as he instinctively reached out for the support of the young, the Negroes, the Puerto Ricans and other minorities who made up a good part of Kennedy's voting constituency in fateful 1968.

FRIENDLY ENOUGH early in the campaign, Rockefeller has stepped up his criticism of Nixon, creating a sense of uneasiness among many Republicans. Even some GOP moderates feel Rocky is pushing his attacks too far.

But even these occasional bursts have not worked well for him. Critics quickly assailed the governor for trying to imitate Kennedy's appeal and even his style.

Rockefeller bears the scars of too many campaigns. And he never forgets the wounds he took in the bitter struggle with Barry Goldwater in 1964. He was looking at them hard when he decided in March not to try this time.

Yet, underneath the battle marks and the air of weary fatalism he carries with him today, a warm, folksy spirit survives and now and then surfaces. He still loves to jest about the wealth of his famous grandfather, John D. Rockefeller. He told an Ohio Republican dinner:

"Today they'd have called my grandfather a dropout. But because of the spirit here in Ohio, he was able to get a job, he got started, and did reasonably well."

A man given to easy rapport with the first dozen rows or more of people in a crowd, Rocky often interrupts his speech to shout "that's right, lady" or "you said it, friend."

Like so many in politics, he speaks best when he tosses his text aside. If the fire is in him for the moment, he can talk with moving earnestness about the problems of war and domestic strife.

This mood of fervent conviction might seize him more often in these pre-convention weeks if he had greater reason for confidence that he could overtake Richard Nixon. But each day his chances grow dimmer, notwithstanding opinion polls which show him doing better than Nixon against any Democratic rival.

His driving courtship of delegates in state after state has not paid off. He wins praise as a plausible candidate, for the marks of his success as a three-term governor are highly visible. But Nixon's agents did their courting long ago, and Rocky changes few votes.

His modest poll advantage is not turning the tide, nor does his lavish advertising campaign in newspapers and on television appear to be having decisive effect.

A visitor to the governor's immense, well-staffed headquarters in New York City gets the impression of a massive machine whirling on a treadmill. Speeches are prepared but they fall on deaf ears. Delegate-counters, instead of adding constantly higher totals, are like accountants at a bankruptcy sale. Strategists wait impatiently for the next poll, or an unlikely Nixon error, or an act of God.

Since his entry, Rockefeller has been able to break off only tiny fragments of Nixon's great backlog of support. Contrarily, he has been hard-pressed to get and hold the backing of some moderates who were supposed to be his all along. His list of endorsements from governors and others is pitifully thin.

In some desperation, the New York governor consequently has undertaken increasingly sharp criticisms of Nixon — indirectly accusing him of courting the Southern racist vote and directly assailing him as an advocate of "endless war" and a born loser at the polls, especially in the big cities where the problems are.

Even some moderates think these attacks are being pressed too far. Party conservatives here and there see the strategy as affording the Democrats the same ammunition this fall that Rocky gave them in 1964 with his heavy assaults on Goldwater.

In the circumstances, however, the governor's strategists do not know what else to do. These days they make a habit of collaring all kinds of people and asking: "What do you think we ought to do?"

One astute observer of New York politics has a theory of how Rockefeller got into this dilemma. It is a simple one: that the governor is a very good governor but a very bad politician.

Surely the errors in his camp have been many this year.

His March 21 decision not to make the race was partly based on the misjudgment that 1968 would see a replay of the 1964 confrontation with the radical right which he found so traumatic four years ago. It has not happened.

His whole view of this race was founded on the notion that moderate governors and others who said they wanted him would go out on a limb for him. They did not.

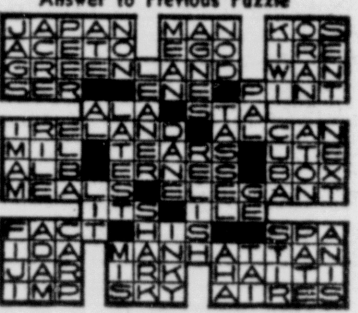

In reaching his March 21 decision, he managed to affront a key supporter, Gov. Spiro Agnew of Maryland, who appears headed now for Nixon with much of his delegation. Rocky's long support of Michigan Gov. George Romney was genuine. He might have quickly gained turnout backing from Romney if he had not, at the moment the latter was faltering badly in New Hampshire, blurted to a Detroit news conference that he would accept a draft. It looked like an undercut, and Romney has not forgotten.

Yet, with all these and other shortcomings, Nelson Rockefeller stands out as a man of political daring and gallantry. He made the 1964 race for the moderates when no one else would. He plunged in belatedly this time, with all too fragile promises of aid (still largely unfulfilled) from timid governors.

His chances today are slim. Nevertheless, some great poll reversal, showing him a convincing winner and Nixon an evident sure loser, might still rescue this able public figure from the futility that has dogged his three tries for president.

Baptist Mission Open At Fayette

The small community of Fayette on the Garden Peninsula has a new minister.

He is Rev. Thomas O. Sivil, who has established a new Baptist Church Mission.

Services are held in the sanctuary formerly occupied by the Pilgrim Holiness Church.

Rev. Sivil has been at Fayette since June 23, coming to the Upper Peninsula from Flint where he had been pastor of the North End Baptist Church for the past five years.

He had been associate pastor of Bethel Baptist Church for 28 years before becoming pastor of the Antioch Baptist Church. In 1953, he organized the Central Baptist Church, Flint, serving as pastor for five years, before he moved to the North End Baptist congregation.

Rev. Sivil's wife, Dorothy, will join him in his Fayette assignment.

The Baptist Church Mission is affiliated with the Southern Baptist State Convention.

Hanna Pellets Boost Profits

NEW YORK—Hanna Mining Co. profitability should increase over the next few years, W. A. Marting, president, told the New York Society of Security Analysts Thursday.

He pointed out that the company's earnings rose 30 percent in the past two years, from $16.5 million to more than $21 million, despite the heavy break-in costs and development write-offs of the largest expansion program in Hanna history.

Marting said that today Hanna Mining is the world's largest independent source of high grade iron ore pellets, with a capacity of 6 million tons a year for its own account, more than all the other independent producers in North America combined.

Citing the growth in North American pellet production from about 1 million tons in 1955 to an industry capacity of nearly 80 million tons annually, Marting said that Hanna has come up faster in pellets than the industry as a whole and today operates six pellet plants with a combined annual capacity of 18 million tons.

He said that two of the company's most important assets are items that don't show in the Hanna balance sheets: the tremendous reserves of ore available for the Hanna-operated pellet plants, and the long-term nature of the pellet sales agreements, which run up to 20 years in some cases and for the life of the property in others.

New Housing At Superior State Named Marquette

SAULT STE. MARIE — Marquette, an honored name in history, a name identified with a city in Michigan, a great university in Milwaukee, and widely recognized this year in the 300th anniversary of his founding the city of Sault Ste. Marie, will have another permanent record here when the married student apartments at Lake Superior State College will be designated "Marquette Hall."

Approval for the naming of the 24 apartment structure was passed by the Michigan Tech Board of Control governing body of LSSC. Dedication ceremonies are scheduled for Sept. 20, the same day that U.S. postage stamp honoring Father Marquette will be having its first day of issue in the Sault. The Rev. John P. Raynor, S.J., president of Marquette University of Milwaukee, will speak at the chancellor's convocation that day, marking the opening of college for LSSC students.

The site of the new hall overlooks the upper St. Marys River, the Sault Locks, and the area where Jesuit priests established the first permanent settlement in between the Alleghenies and the Rockies.

Woman Injured In Auto Crash

One woman remained in St. Francis Hospital this morning with injuries suffered in a two-car accident Friday about 7:40 p. m. on M-35 in Ford River Township.

She is Shirley Krassick, 39, Rte. 1, Bark River, who was a passenger in a car driven by James Englund, 25, Rte. 1, Bark River, which collided with an automobile driven by Rosella Nordquist, 50, also of Rte. 1, Bark River, State Police reported. Details on Mrs. Krassick's condition were not available.

Englund and Mrs. Nordquist were treated for injuries at St. Francis Hospital and released. Edward Krassick, 39, Rte. 1, Bark River, also a passenger in the Englund car, suffered minor injuries but was not taken to the hospital, officers reported.

Indian Housing Called Prospect

The Michigan Commission on Indian Affairs, an autonomous agency of the Michigan Department of Social Services, meeting in Escanaba on Friday, reported that there is good prospect of new "turnkey" housing for Michigan's Indians from the federal government.

Herman E. Cameron, director of the commission and an Indian, said that the Intertribal Council of Michigan, Inc., would be the sponsor for the Indian housing project. Under the program the federal government would put up the housing to a point of 90 percent completion and then the Indians themselves would finish the buildings.

The housing would be provided at four Indian reservations in the State, three of them in the Upper Peninsula, at Hannahville in northern Menominee County, at Keweenaw Bay in the Copper Country, and at Bay Mills in Chippewa County. The Lower Peninsula project would be at Mt. Pleasant.

"We hope," said Cameron "to have a similar program for non-reservation Indians in Michigan."

1,500 In U. P.
Cameron said that there is no accurate population count of the Indians of Michigan, as census figures usually report only the Indians living on reservations. He estimated that there are about 1,500 Indians in the Upper Peninsula, on and off reservations, and that there may be as many as 10,000 in all Michigan.

There are 24 families of Indians at the Hannahville Reservation near Wilson, where the Commission on Indian Affairs went after a morning meeting at the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce and a luncheon with news media persons at the Sherman Hotel.

The visit coincided with a health screening of Hannahville Indians by mobile units of the Michigan Department of Health under an arrangement made by the Delta Menominee Health Department. The health screening units are spending several weeks in the two county district. Members of the Commission on Indian Affairs said that the health check would be as valuable as follow-up efforts at correction of problems identified by the diagnoses.

Commission Members
Attending the luncheon were Russell Hendrick, Lansing, executive assistant, State Department of Social Services; Mrs. Helen Tanner, Ann Arbor, University of Michigan historian who is secretary of the commission; William LeBlanc, Detroit (originally Bay Mills), chairman of the commission, and Sam Taylor of Grand Ledge, Mich., supervisor of the Indian Health Project of the Department of Social Services.

Also attending were Billy Bolin of Gladstone, representing the Bureau of Indian Affairs in this area, and Joe Sagataw, chairman of the Hannahville Indians Tribal Council and named to the board of a projected Statewide Community Action Agency which will devote its services to the Indians of Michigan.

Years Of Observation
Jean Worth, editor of the Escanaba Daily Press, invited by Cameron to comment at the luncheon on the Hannahville community, said that he had been reporting on the Indians of Hannahville for 46 years and that he could not see a great deal of difference in the situation there today and when he started his reporting in 1922.

"It may be worse," said Worth "because then the general situation was more rural and now it has become very civilized, but the Indians stay on in the woods at Hannahville, outside the mainstream of community living. The big debate, never resolved, is whether the colony should be continued and improved, or broken up to force integration of the Indians into the white community."

Not More Agencies
"Whites want to make the Indians over in their own image and the Indians simply have different sets of values. It is remarkable that they have been able to resist change for more than a century despite great social and economic pressures and I don't think it's all bad. They remind me of Groucho Marx, who said that he wouldn't want to be a member of any club that would admit him. We're never asking the Indians, we're always telling them and much of the time I guess they're not listening."

Worth counseled against the creation of still more agencies to deal with the "Indian problem". Others said that the road to Hannahville should be improved to bear all the traffic of social reformers now using it.

Archeologists will excavate during the next few years at several sites in the Yucatan Peninsula's Rio Bec area near the Guatemala border, trying to throw light on mysteries of the ancient Maya people.

Miss Yugoslavia Clicks With Photographers

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The Communist world's first entry in the Miss Universe Pageant, an aspiring music critic from Yugoslavia, got a taste of American music when she ventured into the ear-splitting din of a cellar night club.

Daliborka Stojic—Dali for short—speaks almost no English. But she clapped hands and sang lyrics she'd memorized to such rousers as "Michael, Row the Boat Ashore," and a jazzed-up version of "Oklahoma!"

"One week after a new song comes out in America, we are singing it in Yugoslavia," she said.

Contest rules limited the 23-year-old blonde to ginger ale in the night club. But her bubbling enthusiasm was unbridled. She shook noisemakers and squealed often during a small party hosted by Daniel Lister at his oceanfront Marco Polo Hotel.

Miss Yugoslavia faces final judging tonight but already has won more attention than any of her 64 contest rivals. She clicked with American press photographers who gave her their "Miss Pixable" trophy.

Contest judges picked her among the 15 shapeliest in swimsuits. And about 80 U.S. servicemen wrote her letters after seeing Dali's 38-28-38 figure in the military newspaper Stars and Stripes. All were answered with at least an autograph.

Italian Fashion Houses Seek New Acclaim

ROME (AP) — French haute couture houses had better pay heed to the new trumpet call of the fashion world: The Italians are coming!

At their fall-winter showing, opening in Rome today, Italian houses seek the acclaim from buyers and critics that could make them the pacesetters in style, design and hem length.

The Italians have gained in reputation each season. In addition to their expert sewing and fine sense of beauty, they have shown the knack for the dressy little gimmick that will catch the critics' eyes and give the ready-to-wear people something to copy quickly.

The colors the Italians seem agreed upon this year are the muted shades of gray, navy, dark green and brown, with a prominent exception—a bright zany red.

With the rise in the Italians' fashion stock came a rise in the fees that store buyers pay to see the collections. In some cases the fees have more than doubled. For a peep at the clothes shown by Italy's leading house, Valentino, buyers had to plunk down $2,800 this year.

Even so every seat was booked today and some buyers were left without seats.

REINDEER IN THE mountains of Swedish Lapland

Swedes In America And In Sweden Are Compared

Robert J. LaPlante, diplomatic courier of the American Consulate General at Siesmayerstrasse 21, Frankfurt Germany, wrote the series of which this is the first article surveying living conditions among four families, two in Sweden and two in America to show similarities and contrasts in the daily lives of families separated by history and an ocean. He wrote the articles when on leave from the Diplomatic Courier Service and attending the University of Stockholm. LaPlante is a 17-year veteran of the Courier Service and grew up in Manistique, graduated from journalism at the University of Michigan and retains an interest in sociological journalism. He has traveled 4 million miles to 170 foreign lands.

By ROBERT J. LAPLANTE

Sitting on a bench near the fireplace in an ancient mountain inn of northwest Sweden, attempting to thaw-out after a frigid afternoon of ice fishing, I saw several ski-troops enter the barroom, shake the fresh snow off their tunics, and corporal began playing and singing a beautiful but moody folksong.

Soon the desolate mountain lodge became a song-filled hall of great human warmth as the song resounded almost as an anthem.

Curiosity nudged me from my bench near the fireplace. What was this song that filled the inn? The Swedes, with their particular blend of serious friendliness, informed their American questioner that the song was "De Salde Sina Hemman" or, in English, "They Sold Their Homesteads."

New Life
"They" were those vast numbers of Swedes who left their homeland to journey to a new life in America. In a mountain inn, one hundred years after the migration from Sweden to America had reached volume, the sorrow of leaving homes, relatives and friends behind became real again in the telling of a song.

The Swedish migration to America was one of the streams that combined with other European population flows to send some 35 million humans to the U. S. in the century after 1820.

Primary causes of the migration was the failure to adjust to the reorganization of farm lands that made for smaller farms; reduced production, and higher expenses. Crop failure, rising populations, nationwide epidemics and fatal diseases stirred the harassed peoples at a time when news of the opportunity and available land in America reached them.

Lost Population
Sweden lost one-fourth of its population by emigration to America between 1840 and 1924. News reports and letters about the new life in the U. S. and Canada attracted wide attention and gave rise to the "American Fever" that was the popular urge to join the procession to the New World. (Migration notes from "The Uprooted," by Oscar Handlin, copyright 1951 reprinted with permission of Atlantic-Little Brown & Co.)

Since the U. S. began counting its immigrants in 1820 some 43 million persons have taken up the American life. Most came from Europe; Germany's contribution of nearly seven million tops the human transfer. Scandinavia sent its more than two million to settle across the length and breadth of the American continent and by 1960 the Federal Census revealed that Minnesota claimed 156,788 first and second-generation Swedes. Illinois came next with 142,615; Michigan ranks seventh with a count of 44,991, according to the census.

They Stayed Behind
What of the Swedes who stayed behind in the homeland? And what of the reaction of those who came to the U. S. in search of new fortunes or even a better way of life?

In 1854, a Swede who did not leave his country wrote: "Last year only two households left this pastorate, but now, for some time, there have been auctions every week and eight or nine households, besides servants and servant-girls, intend to go (to the U.S.) People are seized as if by an epidemic and to dissuade them is impossible. They literally shy away and do not want to talk with any minister or person of social standing about the matter."

Another Swede who labored and saved to buy a ticket to America left Sweden at the age of 25. He wrote: "My heart aches as I recall the happy days of childhood. Of course it was hard to leave relatives and friends, home and fatherland, but necessity knows no law and one cannot always follow old customs and ways—however desirable that may be—especially when it concerns a person's future existence."

Daggett Family
This man worked in Illinois and Iowa but settled at last in Minnesota where the famed Homestead Act provided him with 160 acres of land. By this time figures were being reported which showed that a farm worker in Sweden earned room and board and $33.50 each year while a farm hand in America earned room and board and $20 each month.

Commenting further on his Minnesota land, the immigrant-settler continued:

"This Homestead Act of the U. S. has been of immeasurable benefit to numberless people without means. Thousands of our countrymen have taken advantage of it. The land area which in this way came into the hands of Swedes is, indeed, significant. Nor was the frontier life as desolate and pitiable as it is sometimes claimed. If I were to wish myself back in time, I would choose this first decade of the pioneer period, mainly because neighborliness, helpfulness, friendliness and considerations were heartier than during any period since."

(To follow: a comparison of modern Swedish life with American living with four families. The two American families reside in Rockford, Ill., and Menominee County, Michigan; the two Swedish families in Uppsala, Sweden and "Grana" section of Sweden.)

Can McLain Become First 30-Game Winner Since Dizzy Dean?

MINNEAPOLIS - ST. PAUL (AP)—Detroit right-hander Denny McLain needs to win 13 of the Tigers' 77 remaining games this baseball season to become the first pitcher in 34 years to record 30 pitching victories.

Can he do it?

"I've got a chance for 18 now," McLain said Friday night after hurling the Tigers to a three-hit, 5-1 victory over Minnesota to notch his 17th triumph against only two defeats.

"I'd like to win just enough to win a pennant, that's all," McLain added. But he mentions the figure 25 in his conversation. He doesn't talk about winning 25, but he says things like, "anybody who wins 25 games has got to pitch well," when he talks about the kind of season he's having.

Dizzy Dean last won 30 games in the majors. He was 30-7 for the St. Louis Cardinals in 1934. McLain was 10-10 at this stage last year and finished with a 17-16 record. He was a 20-game winner in 1966.

"I'm pitching better this year than I was last year, there's no one or two ways about that," McLain said. "I've won every year I've been up here, but this just seems to be a real good year, that's all."

Detroit pitching coach Johnny Sain was asked about McLain's chances. "He's pitching in a tough ballpark in Detroit," Sain said. "But this guy's a real competitor."

"I think he's pitching better this year. He's improved himself. He's pitching differently. He's got a better assortment of pitches and he's got them organized. He's an organized pitcher out there now. He hasn't pitched a bad ball game all year."

McLain didn't think he was particularly sharp Friday night as he pitched the Tigers to their 13th victory in 16 games and kept them in command in the American League race. He denied it was a routine showing, however.

"I didn't have good stuff, but I had my fastball and I had pretty good control of it," he said. "I just couldn't get my curve over."

"Nothing's routine, believe me. But once I get up four or five runs, I consider myself as having won."

"The Twins hit some shots. You never know until it's over. That's why they go nine innings."

McLain walked two batters in the seventh inning and lost a shutout when third baseman Don Wert let rookie Rick Renick's grounder go between his legs for an error and an unearned run.

Minnesota's only hits were Roci Carew's double in the first inning and singles by Ted Uhlaender and Renick in the fifth.

Wert had wrapped it up for McLain with a two-run homer off loser Jim Kaat, 6-6, following Willie Horton's single in the sixth. It was Wert's eighth homer of the season.

The Tigers also scored single runs in the first, second and seventh innings on singles by Horton, Dick McAuliffe and Al Kaline.

Babe Ruth Nine Rips Bessemer, Iron Mountain

BESSEMER — The Escanaba Babe Ruth League All-Star team, rained out while leading in its opening game Thursday, slugged its way into the Upper Peninsula baseball tournament finals today by pounding out 25 hits in completing a 10-4 victory over Iron Mountain National and in ripping Bessemer 10-1 Friday.

Escanaba was scheduled to face Ishpeming at 11 a.m. today in a game advanced from 1:30 p.m. because of a parade scheduled in Ironwood.

Ishpeming squeezed past Iron Mountain American 4-3 in eight innings to advance to the finals against Escanaba.

Escanaba hitters picked up a 5-3 advantage against Iron Mountain and produced five more runs to assure the opening game victory. Mike Backlund, Brian Larson and Doug Howard each collected three hits and Joe Moran and Steve Vanlerberghe each added two to pace the attack.

Against Bessemer, Escanaba exploded with four runs after two were out in the first inning and Tom Kangas breezed home with a six-hitter.

Backlund walked to open the game, but was forced out at second base by Larson. Larson stole second and remained there as Howard filed out, but Kangas unloaded a triple to deep center field for the first Escanaba run.

Meeting Set On NFL Feud

By The Associated Press
The feuding players and owners of the National Football League today are preparing to meet again in an attempt to solve the pension problems that have plagued their practice camps and threatened their season.

"NFL owners have acknowledged the request of the Players Association for a meeting which has tentatively been set for Sunday afternoon in New York, NFL President Art Modell announced in Cleveland Friday night.

He added that the meeting would be held on the condition that all concerned parties could be notified in time.

Players Ready
In Los Angeles, a spokesman for the players' group said John Gordy of Detroit, president of the NFL Players Association, had contacted all members of their negotiating committee and their attorney and all were ready to make the trip.

Gordy accused the owners of attempting to break up the players' group.

"It appears," Gordy said, "the owners are trying to break this association and we will not stand for it. The association is stronger than ever."

In Johnson City, Tenn., where the Atlanta Falcons opened their rookie camp today, player representative Sam Williams charged the owners "are trying to break up the players' association by threat."

"First, by making a statement canceling all training camps and then reversing their decision and opening them to rookies only and running off all veterans who show up."

And by threatening to play the season with rookies and free agents only."

Charges Denied
Similar comments from all around the country, from Green Bay, Chicago, Washington, Minneapolis and Latrobe, Pa., where the Pittsburgh Steelers opened their training camp.

Modell denied the charges, calling them "not true and ridiculous. The owners have been bargaining in good faith and will continue to do so."

Minnesota Vikings' General Manager Jim Finks called the charges "an insult to our integrity."

The whole matter centers around the players' pension fund. They want a greater contribution from the owners. The owners say they can't afford to meet the demands, and made counter proposals the players say are not acceptable.

The players threatened a strike, and the owners responded with a lockout, closing their training camps to all but rookies, who are not members of the Players' Association.

Modell said at the breakup of a meeting in Los Angeles last weekend the league was prepared to play their preseason games with rookies and free agents.

The veterans responded by setting up their own camps, run by players, with Green Bay and Dallas already in operation.

Such a plan is under consideration by Pittsburgh, Washington, Chicago and possibly Philadelphia.

PORT HURON (AP)—A high pressure front over lower Lake Huron was expected to help most of 213 boats start well today on the 204-nautical-mile race from Port Huron to Mackinac Island.

attack in the 8-1 rout. Gibson, 12-5, didn't permit a baserunner until Bob Aspromonte's leadoff double in the sixth.

It was the ninth straight triumph for Gibson, who hasn't been beaten since May 28, and it was the ninth victory in 10 games for the rampaging Cardinals, who maintained their 9½ game lead.

In other National League activity, Atlanta ripped Los Angeles 7-0, San Francisco trounced Cincinnati 11-4, Philadelphia turned back Pittsburgh 3-2 and New York blanked Chicago 4-0.

The Dodgers' Don Drysdale, who holds the record of six straight shutouts and 57 scoreless innings that Gibson had been seeking, was battered by Atlanta for three runs in the sixth, then chased with four more in the next inning.

Jim Hart accounted for five of San Francisco's runs with a pair of homers after Cincinnati had taken an early 2-0 lead. Willie Mays also contributed a two-run homer, the 557th of his career, and Willie McCovey had a solo blast.

Bucs Lose Again
Rookie Jeff James and John Boozer teamed on a six-hitter that handed the Pirates their seventh straight loss.

James held Pittsburgh to three singles before Gene Alley walked and Roberto Clemente doubled in the ninth. Boozer got Matty Alou on a foul pop, but Donn Clendenon singled in two runs before pinch hitter Gary Kolb filed out to end the game.

Stockton Vaults Into Golf Lead

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Dave Stockton will take a chance when he sees an opening. The 26-year-old Californian saw one Friday and vaulted into a two-stroke lead after two rounds of the Greater Milwaukee Open Golf Tournament.

"Sometimes I charge and sometimes I play safe," said Stockton after shooting a torrid 67 on the 7,155-yard par-72 North Shore Country Club course. "But I'm a better golfer charging."

Friday's round, combined with a first-round 68, gave the Cleveland Open champion a nine-under-par 135 after 36 holes. Two strokes back at 137 were Jim Wiechers, Mac McLendon and veteran Sam Snead, who shot a course record 65.

"I feel just as confident now after two rounds as I did at Cleveland after three," said

Stockton, whose wife, Cathy, is expecting the couple's first child July 21.

"When I shot the 68 Thursday, I told myself I'd shoot one stroke better tomorrow and I did."

Stockton's hot putter turned in five birdies, including a pair of 30-footers as he shot by Dave Marad, who was nine under after 29 holes but collapsed in the stretch.

Balmly, windless weather produced another rash of subpar rounds as 51 golfers smashed par.

Marad fell apart on the 17th and 18th holes, taking a double bogey on the par 3, 170-yard 17th and a bogey on the 18th.

"It was a disaster," said the second-year pro from Wollaston, Mass., who wound up in a four-way tie at 138 three strokes off the pace with Masters Champion Bob Goalby, Dick Lotz and Al Geiberger.

Snead's round was his best this year and broke the day-old mark of 66 jointly set by McLendon and Rocky Thompson in the first round.

Potato Planting's Complex

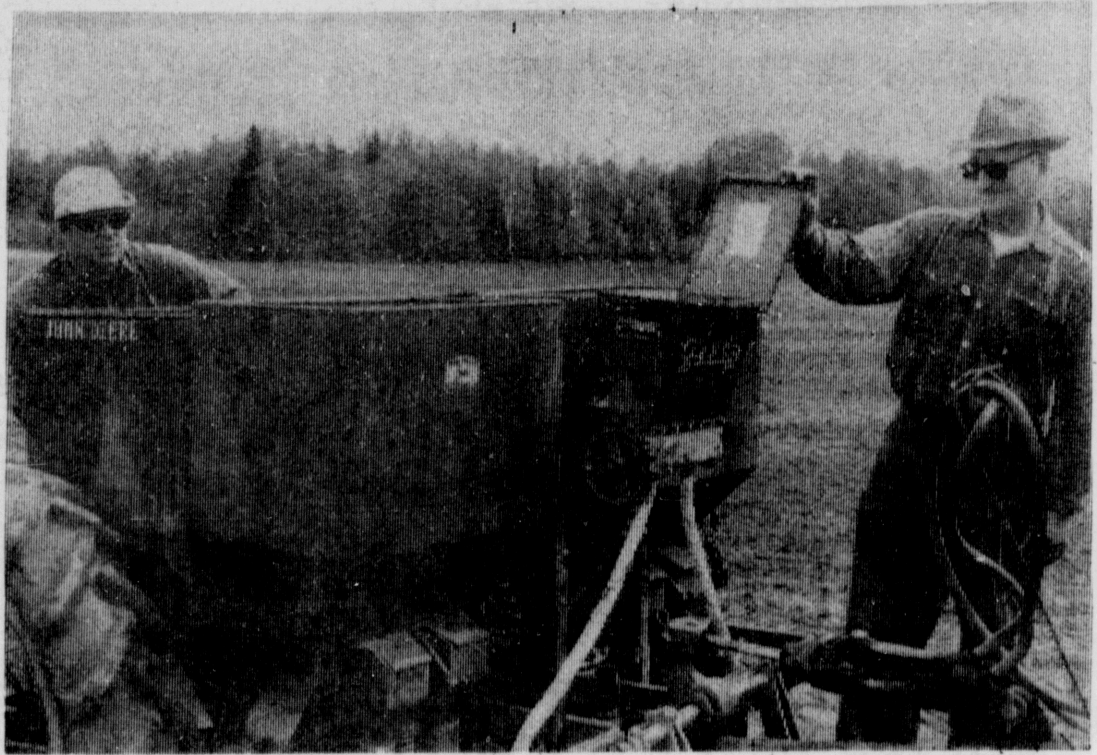

By J. L. HEIRMAN
Delta Agricultural Agent

Some 40 years ago some potatoes were planted with a garden hoe and some with a plow. One opened a furrow with a plow, dropped potatoes in the furrow and covered them up again. It was a simple operation and very little cost involved in machinery investment. The acreage of potatoes per farm was from 2 to 10 acres.

We have made many changes over the last two decades and today potato planting becomes a rather complicated operation. On the Vernon Wick farm at Cornell where foundation seed is produced we can point to these changes. At the front of the tractor an attachment (homemade) applies Pentachloronitrobenzene, often referred to as Terracel. This soil disinfectant is used to reduce a disease, Rhizoctonia, commonly known to potato growers as scurf.

On the potato planter itself we find another attachment which applies a systemic insecticide into the ground. The systemic insecticide goes into solution with ground water and is taken up by the plants. The result is dead insects if they eat or suck from the potato plant. Another attachment which is really a part of the potato planter applies the commercial fertilizer in the rows as the potatoes are planted.

The job is not completed as yet. We would like to see the day when materials could be added to the soil that plants could take up for blight control. This would make it necessary for farmers to go over their fields about 10 times with a sprayer each summer to control this dreaded disease. It would also increase yields because yields are reduced by soil compaction caused by the tractor and sprayer going over the field several times. We feel confident that within the next 10 years researchers will have the answer.

This equipment puts insecticide into potato field.

Rainfall Raises Level Of Lakes

DETROIT (AP) — Unusually heavy rains helped raise the water levels of the Great Lakes above their 10 - year averages in recent weeks.

The U.S. Lake Survey Bulletin reported Friday that the end-of-June level of Lake Michigan-Huron was 578.4 feet, or about 11 inches above the average of the past 10 years.

Other lake readings at the end of June were: Lake Erie, 571.3 feet, 11 inches above average; Lake Ontario, 245.75, seven inches; Lake Superior, 601.05, five inches.

Humphrey's Son Favors Kennedy For Dad's Team

BOSTON (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey's son says he would like Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts as his father's running mate if Kennedy can best help the ticket.

Hubert H. Humphrey III, in Boston to organize young business and professional men to support his father's presidential campaign, told a news conference he is confident the vice president will win the Democratic nomination.

The selection of the vice presidential candidate also is up to the convention, he said, but added: "I would like to see the man who will best help the Democratic ticket, and if that man is Sen. Ted Kennedy, then that's the man I want."

Carpenters In Detroit Settle

DETROIT (AP)— Settlement was reached Friday between the Associated General Contractors (AGC) and carpenters in the Detroit area. The approximately 3,000 carpenters employed by the AGC were the last in the area to remain without a new contract.

The carpenters went on strike May 1 when contracts expired. The settlement was announced at a joint news conference by Stanley Veighe of the AGC and John Harrington of the Detroit Carpenters District Council. The carpenters had previously ratified the agreement and an immediate return to work was expected.

The carpenters will receive an additional $1.61 in wages and 10 cents in insurance over the two - year contract. The terms were the same as those previously agreed to by the carpenters and other contractors' groups. The increase is broken down to give 91 cents immediately and 70 cents after one year.

The AGC represents industrial, commercial and institutional contractors.

Road Test Shows Speeding Driver Saves Little Time

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — The Idaho Department of Law Enforcement says it has proved what it always preached—the speeding driver doesn't get there much faster than the one who takes it easy.

The agency said that in a 1,000-mile test, a driver who tried to beat the traffic arrived at the finish line just 31 minutes ahead of the second driver who stayed in his own lane. The driver who took the chances, the department added, made four panic stops and applied his brakes 1,335 times. The other driver used his brakes 642 times and made no panic stops.

Rail Income And Expense Hit High

NEW YORK (AP) — Gross income for U. S. railroads may reach a record high in 1968, but operating expenses also are expected to reach an all-time high, Railway Age Magazine reports.

In a midyear report on the industry, the magazine says railroads could surpass the $10.6-billion gross-revenue level reached in 1953 and almost equaled in 1966. But experts estimate the industry faces cost increases amounting to almost $530 million annually, including wage boosts which became effective July 1. Consequently, they expect little or no improvement over last year's $535-million net income.

Water Dating To Time Of Christ Going To Vatican

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Water from Antarctica snow and ice dating back to the time Jesus Christ was born is going to be sent to the Vatican.

Ice taken from McMurdo Sound in Operation Deep Freeze and analyzed by scientists of the National Science Foundation was melted Wednesday at the U.S. Naval Academy science laboratory.

Three blocks of ice in five-foot sections weighed 130 pounds and yielded 15 gallons of water. A portion of the water will be sent to the Vatican while another portion will be placed in the Naval Academy Chapel. Another portion of the water is to be mixed with water from the seven seas at the academy which is used during a ring dipping ceremony by midshipmen.

As the ice melted, Rear Adm. James W. Kelly, chief of naval chaplains, prayed, "Lord, we are grateful for all You have given us as we watch the melting of snow that fell the year our Lord was born. We know that was a joyful year."

Drilling at Byrd Station began in 1966 and ended last January when Navy scientists hit bedrock at 7,100 feet below the station.

Rear Adm. James L. Abbot, chief of the Navy task force which supports national science foundation projects, explained how the ice was extracted.

The ice was pulled out in a 15-foot section which later was cut into three sections. Abbot said scientists dated the ice by counting layers formed during summer thaws and by radiation measuring methods.

Scientists found that one layer was formed the year Jesus was born, according to Dr. T. O. Jones, an Antarctic scientist.

The ice was shipped to Baltimore aboard the U.S. Coast Guard icebreaker West Wind, stored in Washington and taken to Annapolis by car to be melted.

New Signs Cut Accident Rate

LANSING (AP) — The State Highway Department said that it has sharply cut the accident rate at a temporary expressway ramp by installing six warning signs costing $3,500.

The department said a two-year study of the ramp, at the west end of Interstate 94 near New Buffalo, showed accidents dropped from 31 to 7 and injuries from 25 to 2 after installation of the signs.

It said the sharply curving ramp routes expressway traffic into Michigan 239, a mile north of the Indiana line because Indiana has not completed its share of the expressway.

Installed, it added, were a large warning sign a mile from the highway's end, two speed limit signs with flashing lights about 400 feet from the ramp, and three large signs on the ramp itself.

Farhat To Prosecute Highway Dept. Probe

LANSING (AP) — Former Ingham County prosecuting attorney Leo Farhat has been named special prosecutor for the one-man grand jury investigation of the State Highway Department.

Grand Juror Marvin J. Salmon, an Ingham County Circuit Judge, announced Farhat's appointment, effective Monday. Salmon said the two would spend several days, at least reviewing in depth the material for the investigation requested by Gov. George Romney and Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley.

A site for the investigation still has not been selected, Salmon said, adding he didn't think it will be Lansing City Hall, where Circuit Court offices are situated.

Farhat, 42, who has practiced law in Ingham County for 16 years, said he and Salmon "hope that there will be no implication of politics, whether it be either pro or con" in the probe.

There will be "no strong-arming of any witnesses," he added.

Judge Salmon and the special prosecutor "will work together and I hope protect the rights and respective dignity of every witness," Farhat said.

Citing the extreme secrecy of a grand jury investigation, Salmon repeated a request that the press "would not remain outside the grand jury room and photograph or disclose that some particular person has come into the grand jury room."

"This person may be entirely innocent of any wrongdoing," he said.

Sheep Fail To Keep Grass Cut

FUNKSTOWN, Md. (AP) — Why cut the grass around the town laagoon? Just get some sheep and let them nibble it off. That was the argument Clarence Stockslager, town maintenance man, used on the burgess and commissioners.

So he bought 17 head of sheep and turned them loose. The sheep grazed for a couple of weeks. The grass got longer. The town fathers' tempers got shorter.

Finally, Funkstown bought a mower.

The sheep are still moping around the laagoon. But the mower does all the work.

Nitrogen Loss From Rainfall Can Be Eased

By J. L. HEIRMAN

Potato and corn crops may need an extra shot of nitrogen because of the heavy rains. It is estimated that as much as 70 per cent of the nitrogen could be leached away from the root area of these crops because of the rainy spell.

According to reports from the Weather Bureau it is normal to have about eight inches of rain from April 1 to July 1. This year we had a little over 13 inches in that period, which accounts for the excess moisture.

Farmers with corn and potatoes which look rather pale green in color can help with a side dressing of nitrogen. On potatoes they could go at the rate of 150 pounds of a 33-0-0 analysis per acre. With corn, 100 pounds would help a great deal. It will depend, too, on what was used at planting time. The more fertility used at planting time the more the possible nitrogen loss. This leaves an unbalanced condition in the soil. A little nitrogen will go a long way to improve the crop needs.

Attend the Church of Your Choice

Who keeps the roof on ... (when everyone is raising it?)

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.
